GIFTS AND GRANTS: UP $10.6 MILLION

Gifts and grants to the University in 1974-75 totalled $35,102,135—about $10.5 million more than last year—Trustee John Eckman reported at the September 12 Executive Board meeting. Of the increase, some $6.3 million was given to the Nucleus Fund for the forthcoming development drive.

VICE-PROVOST: PATRICIA A. McFATE

The appointment of Dr. Patricia A. McFate as the new Vice-Provost for Undergraduate Studies and University Life was approved Friday by the Executive Board. She takes office October 1, responsible for residential living, and for admissions and financial aid on a University-wide basis, as well as for development, coordination, teaching and aspects of advising for undergraduate academic programs. As a member of the Provost's staff, Dr. McFate will participate in the appointments and promotions process, budgetary planning, and educational policymaking.

The new Vice-Provost comes to Penn from the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle where she served as associate vice-chancellor for academic affairs and executive assistant to the chancellor and as associate professor of English.

A member of the Illinois faculty since 1965, she received a bachelors degree in theatre from Michigan State and graduate degrees in English from Northwestern. She has written a number of articles on early 20th century Irish literature and is the author of a book on James Stephen.

Dr. McFate has maintained an active interest in biomedical research throughout her career. After completing her un-

SENATE CHAIRMAN'S REPORT ON SAC 9/10/75

The Senate Advisory Committee held its first meeting of the academic year September 10. The Advisory Committee invited Dean Stanley Johnson to meet with them to discuss faculty-staff scholarships and admissions. The Advisory Committee, through its chairman, will work closely with the Council Committee on Undergraduate Admissions and Financial Aid to formulate a policy in this area that is equitable and protects the faculty's interests. The Advisory Committee discussed problems regarding organization of graduate education at the University, particularly in the professional schools. The October meeting of the Senate Advisory Committee will be devoted entirely to a discussion of this subject with representatives of the interested parties. The agenda was set for the October 1 Senate meeting. This will include amendments to the Senate Rules and will feature a presentation by the President on the upcoming Development Drive and a reception sponsored by the President. Replacements were nominated for a one-year term on the Advisory Committee for Dell Hymes, who has been named Dean of the School of Education. No actions were taken in the name of the Senate that are subject to protest by Rece D. auto dergraduate work, she spent two years as research assistant and staff physiologist at Columbia. Concurrent with her appointment at Chicago Circle, she has been visiting associate professor of internal medicine at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago.

DEAN OF EDUCATION: DELL HYMES

Dr. Dell H. Hymes' appointment as Dean of the Graduate School of Education was approved Friday. He succeeds Professor of Education and Sociology Neal Gross who resigned as dean in 1974, and Professor of Education William Castetter who has served as acting dean since then.

Dean Hymes joined the Pennsylvania faculty in 1965 as professor of folklore and linguistics and of anthropology. He also serves currently as professor of sociology and has been associated with the University's graduate groups in communications and in the history and sociology of science.

"The appointment of a scholar of Dr. Hymes' reputation as dean, coming after a critical period of assessment and consolidation in the School, clearly indicates the commitment of this administration both to try to build upon the existing strengths of the School and to develop new strength in the area of education and language," Provost Stellar said.

Dean Hymes held academic posts at Berkeley and Harvard prior to his appointment at Penn. The author of four texts in his field, he received his undergraduate degree from Reed College and graduate degrees from Indiana University.

SILVERSTEIN BOND ISSUE: $34 MILLION

The sale of bonds for the Silverstein Pavilion of the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania was successfully completed this week, Senior Vice-President Paul Gaddis reported.

The $34 million marks the largest bond issue to date by the Hospitals Authority of Philadelphia, established in 1974 specifically to enable tax-exempt financing for construction and renovation projects at area hospitals. Proceeds of the bonds will help build and equip a 14-level facility for ambulatory and inpatient care on south 34th street adjacent to Children's Hospital. It will include an expanded emergency service facility for the HUP, a cancer research and treatment center, physicians' office space for ambulatory care services, and facilities for 210 patient beds. The new patient areas will replace existing obsolete units at the 100-year-old Hospital.

CAMPUS BUS SCHEDULE—FALL 1975

The free Campus Bus Service is back on its academic-year schedule, running seven evenings a week from 5 p.m. to after midnight to take faculty, staff and students home or bring them and their families to campus for nighttime events. The service is run by the Office of Operational Services, and the Christian Association lends its lobby as an informal waiting room in inclement weather.

HONORS continued

Bienal, a major international art festival. The U.S. exhibit, Video Art U.S.A., will be an abridged version of the ICA's 1975 Video Art.

Lt. Col. Faris R. Kirkland, lecturer in military science, has received a grant from the Public Committee for the Humanities in Pennsylvania to study JROTC: Fears, Beliefs and Humanistic Options.

President Martin Meyerson was one of five educators named to the Board of Directors of the Council for Financial Aid to Education at its annual meeting this summer. Mr. Meyerson has also been designated a trustee of the recently established Benjamin Franklin-Edward J. Piszek Communication Fund which will promote the accomplishments of Philadelphians and U.S. citizens.

Dr. Warren W. Nichols, professor of pediatrics and of human genetics here, has been named the S. Emlen Stokes Professor of Genetics at the Institute for Medical Research in Camden. He continues partial affiliation with the University while holding the Institute's first endowed chair and serving as head of its department of cytogenetics.

Dr. Bernard Wolfman, Kenneth W. Gemmill Professor of Tax Law and Tax Policy, has been appointed to Harvard's Overseers' Committee to Visit the Law School.

FOR NEW ADMINISTRATORS

To welcome new A-1's and their families, the Administrative Assembly sponsors a picnic at New Bolton Center, September 28 from 1 to 5 p.m. On the agenda: tours of the facilities, games, and a surrey-with-the-fringe-on-top for a ride around the grounds. The Assembly supplies barbecued chicken, but it's b.y.o. for beverages, plates, utensils, tables, etc. The deadline for reservations is September 22. To sign up: send name, department and Penn extension plus $1 for yourself and each friend or family member that you bring ($5 maximum charge per family) to Raymond Saalbach, 417 Franklin Bldg., Ext. 7927.

DEATHS

Jack T. Anderson (September 4 at 57), a blacksmith at the Veterinary School's New Bolton Center since 1967.

Warren Bailey (August 29 at 56), who joined the security and safety staff in 1964.

Calvin J. Davis (August 3 at 46), a laboratory utility man in the School of Veterinary Medicine for four years.

Elizabeth V. McGlinchey (September 3 at 54), a member of the College of General Studies clerical staff since 1967.

Theodore T. Norman (September 3 at 55), a night janitor here for nine years.

THINGS TO DO

STOP

Stop smoking: the Center for Behavioral Medicine's eight-week program to help you begins September 22 and 23 and continues with five follow-up visits over the next nine months. Fee: $100, but participants who succeed in quitting receive a $50 refund. To sign up for the required screening interview: 227-3503 from University phones.

"Stop Rape" was the slogan of the 1973 sit-in that launched Penn's Program of security improvements: the Green was brighter at night, a campus bus began to roll (see page 3), and classes in unarmed self-defense were formed. Open to women faculty, staff and students at no charge, the courses resume this week in the dance studio of Weightman Gym. Registration is held at the first meeting, but students will be accepted next week, too, if there is room. Beginners: Mon. and Wed., 5:30-7 p.m.; Intermediates: Tues. and Thurs., 5-6:30 p.m. For more information: the recreation department, Ext. 8331 or the Women's Center, Ext. 8611.

Stop in at the Rathskeller. You deserve a break and it opens today at noon in the basement of Houston Hall with beer, wine, assorted snacks (chips, pretzels and peanuts) and entertainment on tap for the weekends. Sponsored by Mask and Wig, the Rathskeller is a private club, but any University affiliate twenty-one years old and up can join. Applications are available downstairs in the club or upstairs on the east end of the first floor from business manager Thomas Hauber. To join: present a Penn I.D. and proof of age (driver's license, birth certificate, etc.), fill out the application form, pay the $1 fee, wait twenty-four hours and then pick up your membership card and a Rathskeller sticker for your I.D. Club hours: Mon., noon-6 p.m.; Tues.-Thurs., noon-midnight; Fri., noon-1 a.m.; Sat., 4 p.m.-1 a.m.

LOOK

The exhibit of silkscreens by Howard Smith, an American artist living in Finland, opens with a slide presentation by former Philadelphia gallery owner Juanita Scharff, September 17, 5-8 p.m. in the Houston Hall Gallery. Sponsored by the PUC Art Committee, the exhibit runs through October 7.

Seeing is believing: drivers at the Institute for Environmental Medicine have shown that men can work at record depths of 1600 feet (Almanac September 2). Film clips of the experiment and a panel discussion with four of the Penn faculty who participated are broadcast on Channel 12's Take 12, September 24 at 6:30 p.m.

LISTEN

Musica Orbis performs Headlight, a concert of original compositions blending song, jazz, rock and contemporary classical works, September 20, 7:30 p.m. in the Museum's Harrison Auditorium. Admission: $2.50.

Marimbas, glockenspiels and tuned drums are used by composerperformer Steve Reich and his musicians when they make their Philadelphia premiere, September 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the Museum Auditorium. Tickets to the ICA-sponsored concert are $2 for members and students, $3 for others, in advance at ICA or at the door.

Dr. Richard Beeman, associate professor of history, discusses The Revolutionary Character of the American Revolution when the Faculty Tea Club's fall program gets underway September 23 at 1:30 p.m. in the Faculty Club.

Merrill Reese handles play-by-play and Jack O'Reilly's on features when Penn football games are broadcast over WWDB-FM, 96.5.

GC

Even if you didn't subscribe to the Shaw Festival, you can still go. From George Bernard Shaw's point of view, the American Revolution provokes reversals: a conformist rebels and a rebel conforms in The Devil's Disciple, opening September 29 at the Annenberg Center. Directed by Paxton Whitehead and Tony von Bridge, the melodrama runs through October 11. Tickets: Annenberg Box Office, Mon.-Fri., 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Ext. 6791.
