Affirmative Action, Council Changes Discussed

At the Council meeting on Monday, April 9 President Martin Meyerson reported that the University has submitted a revised draft affirmative action plan to the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs of the Department of Labor. The Labor Department audit, begun in January, is required by law prior to the award of a federal contract in excess of $1 million; the Department of Energy is scheduled to award a contract of $1.7 million to the University's physics department.

"A number of deficiencies in form were found," Meyerson said. "We believe we have met the requirements.... We were given a March 23 deadline, and the plans and supporting data are now in the hands of the federal officials.... We have a great deal at stake." Meyerson asserted that "we have met the overall goals of our affirmative plan of five years ago." He asked for advice and help from women and minority groups on the new policies. Consultation would begin once the government completed its review of the programs and policies submitted by the University, he said.

The affirmative action plan refers to employment only. Categories under consideration include recruitment, selection, promotion, salaries and compensation and employment conditions. Almanac will publish the plan when the government has completed its review.

Meyerson presented a status report on WXPB-FM, the student radio station. The University has three options in the wake of the Federal Communications Commission decision to deny the University's petition to reconsider the commission's earlier refusal to allow the station's license renewal: to do nothing and acquiesce to the decision; to go to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; to apply for a new license. "We expect to follow the second or third course of action. WXPB has changed in all kinds of ways in the last years," Meyerson said. "It is not the same station as it was" when the station was fined for broadcasting obscene language in January 1975.

The Council continued its discussion of the report of the Committee to Review University Council. (See Almanac, February 27, 1979 for the full text of the report and March 27, 1979 for coverage of last meeting's deliberations.) The principal recommendation of the committee is "that the University Council be maintained," Committee Chairman Peter Conn said. An amendment that would allow the chairman of the Undergraduate Assembly and a graduate student representative to sit on the Steering Committee of Council passed. Faculty Senate Chairman Irving Kravis opposed the move. "It's a mistake to push Council even more so in the direction of a constituency approach—and of antagonistic constituencies," he said. "The faculty is the senior partner in Council."

After further debate on proposed amendments, the report was adopted. The Conn committee will now rewrite the recommendations listed in the report in bylaw language.

News Briefs

Chinese Exchange Scholar Arrives at Penn

Dr. Wei-Chu Chen, a faculty member of Nankai University of Tientsin, China, has been appointed a visiting scholar at the University. Jointly sponsored by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and by Rohm and Haas Company, Chen is among the first Chinese exchange scholars to be sent to the United States since relations between the two countries were normalized on January 1, 1979. The visiting scholar's field is ion exchange resin polymer chemistry. According to his official host on campus, Dr. Ponzy Lu of the chemistry department, Chen will conduct research, including some joint experiments with Lu, in the chemistry department and will spend about one day a week in the laboratories of Rohm and Haas. He is also encouraging the visiting chemist to teach and have contacts with students, Lu said. Chen spent three months studying English at George Washington University before coming to Penn for his one-year appointment. Dr. Otto Haas, president of the Philadelphia chemical company Rohm and Haas, is a University term trustee.

Eight Penn Scholars Win Guggenheims

Eight members of the University's faculty and staff have received fellowship grants from the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation for 1979. In its fifty-fifth annual competition the foundation awarded grants totalling $4,655,000 to 291 scholars, scientists and artists chosen from among 2,974 applicants.

The University ranked second—along with Cornell, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Minnesota—in number of awards given to an institution. The University of California, Berkeley and Columbia each received nine awards. Yale received seven, and Harvard and Princeton faculty were awarded five. Other Pennsylvania institutions with faculty winning the prestigious fellowship include the University of Pittsburgh, Bryn Mawr College, Philadelphia College of Art and Carnegie-Mellon University. Last year seven from the University were granted Guggenheims.

The eight University fellows and their fields of research are:

- Dr. Nina Auerbach, associate professor of English: Victorian womanhood and literary character.
- Dr. Jere R. Behrman, professor of economics: an analysis of the role of women in economic development.
- Dr. Ward H. Goodenough, professor of anthropology: analytical studies in cultural anthropology.
- Dr. John E. Jackson, associate professor of political science and public management: dynamic models of political-economic interaction.
- Dr. Charles H. Kahn, professor of philosophy: origins of the concept of will and freedom of choice.
- Dr. Georg N. Knauer, professor of classical studies: the Latin translations and commentaries of Homer up to 1600.
- Dr. Stephen J. Lieberman, research specialist in the Sumerian dictionary project of the University Museum: linguistic and sociolinguistic studies on the Sumerian "loan" words in Akkadian.
- Dr. Robert T. Towers, professor of mathematics and physics: studies in functional analysis and mathematical physics.

I. B. Singer to Speak Here April 23

Isaac Bashevis Singer, winner of the 1978 Nobel Prize for Literature, will present a lecture at Irvine Auditorium, April 23 at 8 p.m. Jointly sponsored by Hillel and Connaissance, the evening with the acclaimed Yiddish author is free and open to the public.

Singer, 74, is the author of numerous novels, collections of short stories and children's books. His most recent work is a novel, Shosha.

Wallace Wins Bancroft Prize

Anthropologist Anthony F. C. Wallace has won the 1979 Bancroft Prize for his book Rockdale: The Growth of an American Village in the Early Industrial Revolution, published by Alfred A. Knopf. Presented yearly by Columbia University, the prestigious award goes to books of "exceptional merit and distinction in American history and diplomacy" and carries a prize of $4,000 for each book cited. This year, in addition to Wallace, Christopher Thorne of the University of Sussex, England received the award for his book Allies of a Kind: The United States, Britain and the War Against Japan, 1941-45.

Wallace examined the positive and negative effects of industrialization in his study of the small Pennsylvania mill town of Rockdale in the early years of the industrial revolution. Wallace received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. from Penn and is a professor of anthropology and curator of American ethnography at the University Museum.

Books Briefly Noted

Yehuda Elkana, Joshua Lederberg, Robert K. Merton, Arnold Thackray and Harriet Zuckerman: Toward a Metric of Science. The Advent of Science Indicators. 354 pages. $19.95. Wiley Interscience.

These studies discuss the quantitative measures of the condition and growth of scientific knowledge, activities, values, organization and resources. Thackray is professor of the history and sociology of science and editor of Isis.

Archie Hanlan. Postscript by Mary S. Hanlan. Edited by Muriel E. Nelson: Autobiography of Dying. 216 pages. $8.95. Doubleday. In this intimate account, Hanlan recorded his last two years of life. His notes were edited by his friend and colleague Muriel E. Nelson. Hanlan was an associate professor of social work when he died at the age of 48 in 1973.

David A. Heenan and Howard V. Perlmutter: Multinational Organization Development. 194 pages. $4.95. Addison-Wesley. Approaching the topic from social and architectural viewpoints, the authors investigate the problems inherent in multinational organization development and suggest strategies for their solution. Perlmutter is professor of social architecture in the department of Multinational Enterprise.

Clarence Morris: Modern Defamation Law. 76 pages. $7.48. American Law Institute.

Morris examines the evolution of laws pertaining to libel and slander and presents landmark Supreme Court decisions against the background of the common law that those decisions displace. Morris is an emeritus professor of law.

Abraham Noordergraaf: Circulatory System Dynamics. 351 pages. $36. Academic Press.

In this first volume of a projected Biophysics and Bioengineering series, Noordergraaf analyzes the cardiovascular system and the interaction of its subsystems. Two chapters discuss major measurement techniques, and one reviews artificial hearts and heart transplantation. Noordergraaf is professor of bioengineering.

Herbert R. Northrup, Ronald M. Cowin and Lawrence G. Vanden Plas, et. al.: The Objective Selection of Supervisors. 257 pages. $25. Wharton Industrial Research Unit.

The authors describe industry's informal practices, the center method and Honeywell's performance standards system of selecting supervisors, then analyze the law and new uniform guidelines for employee selection procedures. Northrup is professor of industry and director of the Wharton Industrial Research Unit.

Herbert R. Northrup, Steven M. Di Antonio, John A. Brinker and Dale F. Daniel: Black and Other Minority Participation in the All Volunteer Navy and Marine Corps. 242 pages. $18.50. Wharton Industrial Research Unit.

This study focuses on the racial constitution of the all-volunteer Navy and Marine Corps and their efforts toward attaining a demographically proportionate representation of blacks and other minorities at all job levels. Brinker is an M.B.A. candidate at the Wharton School and a research assistant at the Industrial Research Center.

Bookstore Autographing Set for April 26

The University Bookstore welcomes Donald L. Bartlett and James B. Steele, authors of Empire: The Life, Legend and Madness of Howard Hughes, at an autographing there on April 26 from 4 to 6 p.m. As a Philadelphia Inquirer investigative reporting team, Bartlett and Steele have won numerous awards, including a 1975 Pulitzer Prize for journalism. They will appear on the Today Show on April 25. The bookstore will offer Empire, published by W. W. Norton, at a discount price of $10; the list price is $15.95. The University community is invited to meet the authors on April 26.

Italian Studies Awards Announced

Starting this spring, three Vittorini Fund Prizes will be awarded by the America-Italy Society of Philadelphia for outstanding achievement in Italian course work. The competition is open to all students of Italian, majors and non-majors, at the University. A $250 first prize will be given for the best essay in Italian literature, a $150 second prize for achievement in an intermediate language course and a third prize of $100 for excellence in a first-year Italian course. The Vittorini Fund will also award a $1,000 scholarship annually to an outstanding major in Italian.

Prizes will be presented by the president of the America-Italy Society of Philadelphia in a ceremony sponsored by the Circolo Italiano and the Center for Italian Studies. For information call Dr. V. Kirkham of the Department of Romance Languages, 521 Williams Hall, Ext. 6028.

Antiques Show Begins April 24

The University Hospital Antiques show and sale takes place April 24-28 at the 103rd Engineers Armory on 33rd Street north of Market Street. The show, an annual event, features gallery and house tours, lectures and luncheons. The profits from the show contribute to the improvement of patient care facilities at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. This year's proceeds will provide and equip a new x-ray room. For information and a schedule of events call MI2-6557.

Join the 5,000 Meter Marathon

Sponsored by the Class of 1974, the General Alumni Society and the Spike Shoe Club, the First Annual Alumni Run begins on Saturday, May 19 at 9:15 a.m. at Franklin Field. The 5,000 meter, or 3.1 mile race will be followed by an awards ceremony. All members of the University community—alumni, spouses, children over age 16, faculty, students and staff—are welcome. Entrants will be grouped into various categories. The entry fee is $3 until May 5, $4 for late entries. Maps of the course and entry forms are available from Alumni Relations, Eisenlohr Hall, or by calling Ext. 7811.

Fels Fund Sponsors Celebration

The University and the Samuel S. Fels Fund invite the University community to celebrate Forty Years of Graduate Education and Research for the Public Service on April 17. Fels, a manufacturer and philanthropist, established the Wharton School's Institute of Local and State Government, which, after his death in 1950, became the Fels Institute of Local and State Government. The program includes an open house from noon to 2:15 p.m. at the School of Public and Urban Policy (the former Fels mansion) at 39th and Walnut Streets and the dedication of the Samuel S. Fels Walk at 2:30 (39th between Walnut and Spruce Streets). Aaron Wildavsky, former president of the Russell Sage Foundation, will deliver this year's Fels Lecture, The Pogo Principle in Federal Expenditure Policy, at 4 p.m. in Room B6 of Stiteler Hall.

Faculty Study Program in Israel Announced

Twenty Philadelphia-area academicians and University administrators will participate in a 10-day study mission to Israel, December 23, 1979 through January 2, 1980. Sponsored by the Jewish Campus Activities Board, the program will cost $747; spouses will be charged a slightly higher fee.

The program will include tours of historical and religious sites and offer educational and social activities with Israeli academicians and their families. For information call the Jewish Campus Activities Board at Ext. 8265, or Penn Hillel at Ext. 7391.

HUP Invites HSA Candidate Applications

The Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania encourages West Philadelphia residents over the age of 18 and who are not employed in health service fields to serve on the Sub-area Council of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Health Systems Agency (HSA). The HSA has primary responsibility for regional health care planning and reviews and approves all major hospital projects for the federal government. One of nine 36-member sub-area councils in southeastern Pennsylvania, the West Philadelphia Sub-area Council provides an opportunity for local participation in the health care planning process.

To apply call 662-2544, the HUP public relations office. The deadline for application is April 20.

New Bolton Center Offers Open House

The New Bolton Center's annual open house will take place on Saturday, April 21, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. The public is invited to tour the Large Animal Hospital and the C. Mahlon Kline Orthopedic and Rehabilitation Center and to view exhibits on the center's activities. Lunch will be served in the cafeteria. For information call New Bolton Center, 221-287 (from campus telephones).

Participate in the U.S. Savings Bond Program

Each year the University and the U.S. Treasury Department provide payroll deductions for anyone wanting to purchase savings bonds. An authorization card and information packet will be sent to all employees. If you are interested complete the card and return it to the payroll office, Room 309, Franklin Building/16.

Help Us Help You

If you have problems receiving Almanac, call Adele Wolfe, editorial assistant, at the Almanac office, Ext. 5274, or write her at 515 Franklin Building/16.

Openings

*The following listings are condensed from the personnel office's bulletin of April 12, 1979. Dates in parentheses refer to the Almanac issue in which a complete job description appeared.
