UPHS CEO: Robert Martin

Dr. Robert D. Martin, currently the interim chief executive officer and chief operating officer of the UPHS, has been appointed CEO position on a permanent basis, President Judith Rodin announced last Friday. The appointment is effective immediately. Since becoming interim CEO last July, "Dr. Martin has not only been leading the financial turnaround of the Health System, but he has been making invaluable contributions as chief operating officer and chief financial officer for more than two years. For the first half of FY01, the Health System has an operating profit of $18.5 million, and there are promising indications that UPHS will finish the fiscal year strongly. His appointment as CEO is a recognition of his stewardship during these demanding times," President Rodin said.

Dr. Martin joined the Health System in August of 1997 as executive director of Clinical Care Associates, Penn's primary-care network. Before coming to UPHS, he was chief administrative officer and treasurer to the board of governors at the Mayo Clinic in Scottsdale, Arizona. There, he developed a 10-year business plan addressing hospital strategy, managed-care strategy, primary-care strategy, and management development. From 1989 to 1995, he served as senior vice president for finance and administration and CFO for Scottsdale Memorial Health Systems.

A graduate of the University of North Texas, Dr. Martin holds master's and doctoral degrees in economics and finance from Southern Methodist University.

As President Rodin announced on February 16, the University is following the recommendation of a special committee of trustees and senior medical faculty to establish a new not-for-profit entity that will incorporate the health-services component of UPHS (Almanac February 20). This process may take as long as a year. When the new entity is operational, Dr. Martin's appointment will be submitted to the trustees of the new entity for reaffirmation.

Robert Inman

NASA Chief: Paul Wolpe

Dr. Paul Root Wolpe, assistant professor of psychiatry and assistant professor of sociology as well as a fellow at the Center for Bioethics at the School of Medicine, has been named the first Chief of Bioethics and Human Subject Protection for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Dr. Wolpe's appointment is the first of its kind at NASA. As founder of NASA's Bioethics Office he will contribute to the formulation of policies and procedures that will help oversee NASA's clinical and research work. "The goal is to hold NASA to the highest ethical standards while keeping in mind the inherent risks of space travel," he said. He will spend forty percent of his time on this assignment—either at the administrative headquarters in D.C. or in the research centers in Houston. He will serve as

VP Public Safety: Maureen Rush

Maureen Rush, who has been Chief of Police of the Penn Police Department for the past five years, became the new Vice President for Public Safety last Tuesday, President Judith Rodin and EVP John Fry announced. Ms. Rush has been serving in that position in an interim capacity since last October.

"It is a tribute to Maureen's outstanding leadership and demonstrated ability that after conducting an exhaustive nationwide search and identifying many wonderful candidates, we concluded that we had the best possible person already on board. We place enormous importance on safety and security at Penn and we have tremendous confidence in Maureen's ability to continue to lead the Division forward," said President Rodin.

"Maureen has been a dedicated member of the Division of Public Safety for the past seven years, and has played a key role in the Division's continuing growth and evolution into one of the premier campus law enforcement agencies in the nation. She has an extensive knowledge of urban law enforcement issues and the interaction between the campus and the community, as well as a proven commitment to the University. She has also developed excellent relationships with local law enforcement agencies, most importantly with the Philadelphia Police Department. We are fortunate to have someone with Maureen's depth and breadth of experience available to assume this critical position," said Mr. Fry.

During the past several years, the Division of Public Safety has developed into a model campus law enforcement agency, continually meeting the challenges faced by an urban university, and continuing to strengthen its relationships with the community and with the city. Most recently, the Division was awarded accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA), thereby becoming the first nationally accredited campus police agency within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ms. Rush joined the Division of Public Safety in 1994 as Director of Special Services and was named Chief of Police in 1996. Prior to joining the University, she had a distinguished career with the Philadelphia Police Department. Ms. Rush will receive an M.S. from SAS this month and received a B.S. in organizational management from Eastern College.

Alumni Relations: Robert Alig

Robert Alig

Robert J. Alig (C'84, WG'87) has been appointed Assistant Vice President for Alumni Relations effective June 4. In announcing his appointment, Vice President for Development and Alumni Relations Virginia Clark commented: "Bob brings with him a wonderful complement of work and educational experiences that will serve the University's needs well as we work to create a rich array of programs and services to meet the needs and expectations of Penn's diverse global alumni body."

Currently a principal and partner of Katalyst, LLC, based in Conshohocken, which specializes in strategic planning, business development, organizational design and human resource management, Mr. Alig previously served as director of MBA Admissions and Financial Aid at Wharton from 1996 to 2000. His earlier professional career included sales and marketing of consumer products, and administrative and commercial property management.

"Mr. Alig's work with clients utilizing Internet technologies, e-learning, and web-enabled management tools, are a solid foundation for meeting the challenges of his new position, which will include continuing to engage young and diverse alumni; assuring the ongoing development of interesting, creative programming that appeals to Penn's broad alumni base; and developing an outstanding program to identify, educate, and prepare the University's future volunteer leaders," said Ms. Clark.

functional manager to ensure that research on human and animal subjects is conducted safely, humanely and in accordance with high ethical standards; as well as to plan, direct and promulgate policy and programs in the field of bioethics. Dr. Wolpe's assignment entails providing key scientific advice and expertise for monitoring compliance with all relevant regulatory and statutory requirements; planning, organizing and integrating NASA's Institutional Review Board (IRB) and Animal Care and Use Committee (ACUC); external ethical reviews and developing standards and guidelines tailored to unique programmatic research requirements; and crafting an international bioethics policy for all countries involved in collaborative space exploration.

"Space travel is a unique human endeavor that poses unique ethical challenges," says Dr. Wolpe. He will represent NASA on interagency working groups for the protection of patients, human subjects and welfare of animals used in research. He is also beginning collaboration on an international bioethics policy code for space research with America's space partners—Russia, the European Union, Japan and Canada. "Though an agreement currently does exist between our space partners, it is fragmented and subjective; therefore, it needs to be formalized," he said.

Dr. Richard Williams, Acting Chief Health and Medical Officer for NASA, said, "As Chief of Bioethics, his extensive experience will be invaluable as NASA meets its commitment to our research, technology development, and health care adhering to the highest bioethical principles."

Honors and Other Things

NAS Member: Dr. Alcock

Charles Alcock

Dr. Charles R. Alcock, the Reese W. Flower Professor of Astronomy and Astrophysics, has been elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences. He is one of 72 researchers nationwide inducted into the Academy this year. His induction brings to 35 the number of Penn researchers in the 1,874 member body.

Dr. Alcock serves as lead researcher in the MACHO Project, an international dark matter experiment. Together with his peers, Dr. Alcock has found evidence of approximately 20 compact but weighty objects, nicknamed MACHOs, or Massive Compact Halo Objects. The discovery of these invisible MACHOs may account for a significant percentage of our galaxy's mass.

Association for Thoracic Surgery President: Dr. Gardner

Dr. Timothy Gardner, the William M. Measey professor of Surgery and chief of the division of cardiothoracic surgery, has been elected president of the American Association for Thoracic Surgery; his term will be one year. He will serve as the 82nd president of the Association. Since joining Penn in 1993, Dr. Gardner has participated in the major expansion of cardiac surgical activities in UPHS that now includes the cardiac surgery programs at Presbyterian Medical Center and Pennsylvania Hospital.

U.S.-France Education Roundtable

The International Programs office at the Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE-International) is working with France's National Institut de Recherche Pédagogique (INRP) in Paris to establish the first U.S.-France Education Roundtable. Dean Susan Fuhrman and Executive Director Cheng Davis traveled to France in March and met with INRP's Director Anne-Marie Parrin-Nafakh to lay the groundwork for the roundtables, which will be held, at a minimum, in 2002 and 2003. GSE's national research center, the Consortium for Policy Research in Education (CPRE), will represent the U.S. side while INRP will represent the French side.

Stressing the relationship between education and economic growth, the roundtables will address professional development and the relationship between research in education and government policy. By promoting dialogue on these topics, the roundtables encourage the exchange of information and enable each country to learn from the other.

A second outcome of the trip was the signing of an agreement with France's premiere teaching college, the Institut Universitaire de Formation des Maîtres des Pays de la Loire (IUFM) in Nantes. The agreement establishes a faculty and student exchange program between GSE-International and IUFM. The program available to GSE faculty and students in spring 2002, will focus on education internships, professional development, and national standards in education.

For more information on the International Programs office at GSE, e-mail intlmp@gse.upenn.edu.

Trudeau Medal: Dr. Fishman

Dr. Alfred P. Fishman, professor emeritus of medicine and senior associate dean for program development at the School of Medicine, is this year's recipient of the Trudeau Medal, from the American Thoracic Society, a branch of the American Lung Association. The award recognizes Dr. Fishman's excellence in original research on the lungs, the control of breathing in health and disease, and on the normal and abnormal pulmonary circulation. This research has led to dramatic advances in the understanding and treatment of related pulmonary diseases.

Recognized as an expert in pulmonary diseases, Dr. Fishman's research also includes the study of the heart and kidneys, and the interplay of these organs with the lungs.

The Trudeau Award honors Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, who served as the first president of the American Lung Association. Dr. Trudeau was among the first to recognize tuberculosis as a contagious bacterial disease and to use laboratory methods to identify its presence.

Angell Medal: Charles K. Williams, II

Charles Williams, II

Dr. Charles K. Williams, II, became the eighth recipient of the Angell Medal established by the University Museum to honor distinguished service to the Museum by a supporter. Dr. Williams, an archaeologist, long-time benefactor and a member of the Board of Overseers, was given the award at the Board's annual dinner.

In presenting the award, Dr. Jeremy Sabloff, Director of the University Museum, noted, "I could easily go on at length about Charles' many achievements, the boards he sits on, the articles he has written, but more important than any of these to me is, his deep understanding of and affection for this great Museum; his energy, commitment to, and support of the Museum; and his witty, wry, humble, and direct approach to people and life."

An active member of the Museum's Board of Overseers since 1985, Dr. Williams currently serves as Chairman of the $55 million, 21st Century Campaign, after launching it in February 2001 with an unprecedented $16 million contribution.

Dr. William's volunteer work with the Museum is an extension of his life-long work and commitment to archaeological research and education. He received his Ph.D. in Classical Archaeology in 1978 and as Field Director of the Corinth Excavations of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece (1966-1997), he pursued his twin passions: archaeological research and training opportunities for a new generation of scholars—including students and researchers from Penn.

Marian Angell Godfrey Boyer, for whom the medal was named, was a long-time supporter, one of the founding members of the Women's Committee, and Acting Director, 1946 and 1947.

AMSA Golden Apple: Dr. Davies

Helen Davies

Dr. Helen C. Davies, professor of microbiology, has been selected as the American Medical Student Association's (AMSA) recipient of the 2001 National Golden Apple for Teaching Excellence Award. This award is designed to recognize a medical school professor who has a significant impact on the educational value that the medical student receives from his/her coursework. She is the first Penn professor and the first woman to receive this award.

The student who nominated her did so because "she is a revolutionary both inside and outside of the classroom and she has thus transformed our outlook on medicine forever." AMSA's selection committee was impressed with the variety and depth of her experience, as well as her contributions to medical education.

As an instructor, she has made "a significant impact on the educational value that the medical students receive from their coursework." Dr. Davies' use of music in teaching enables medical students to learn difficult material. The award was presented at AMSA's 51st National Convention.

"On behalf of our nation's physicians-in-training, we would like to once again commend you for your teaching excellence. You are an asset to the University of Pennsylvania and to all physicians-in-training," said Dr. Sindhu Srinivas, AMSA's National President.

Achievement in Diversity: Dr. Outlaw

Dr. Freida Outlaw, assistant professor of nursing, was presented with the School of Nursing Award for Outstanding Effort and Achievement in Diversity at the recent 11th Biennial Black Health Care Conference.

40 Under 40: Ms. DeFries

Carol DeFries, executive director of the Office of Government, Community and Public Affairs, has been honored by the Philadelphia Business Journal as one of this year's 40 Under 40. The award singles out 40 individuals under 40 who are making their mark on the Philadelphia community. Ms. DeFries was recognized for her "commitment to professional excellence and contributions to the community."

Director's Award: Ida Goldstein

Ida Goldstein

Ida Goldstein, the University Museum's long-time Volunteer Placement Coordinator, is the 2001 recipient of the Director's Award—established by the University Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology to honor exceptional volunteer achievement.

"The Museum has a treasure trove of exceptional volunteers—thanks in no small part to Ida Goldstein, our 'volunteer of volunteers,'" noted Dr. Jeremy Sabloff, director of the University Museum. "For more than a decade, she has dedicated herself not only to the Museum itself but to other volunteers like her who devote their time and energy to the Museum."

Tennis Hall of Fame: Dr. Brody

Dr. Howard Brody, emeritus professor of physics, received the International Tennis Hall of Fame 2000 Tennis Educational Merit Award at the USTA Annual Meeting in Tucson, in April. Dr. Brody is a member of the International Tennis Federation Technical Commission, United States Tennis Association Sports Science Committee, and winner of the 1996 Professional Tennis Registry's Plagenhoef award for sports science. During part of the 1991 season, Dr. Brody was Penn's interim varsity tennis coach.

Shils Term Chair in Entrepreneurial Management

Edward and Shirley Shils

Wharton Dean Patrick Harker announced recently that Dr. Edward B. Shils, the George W. Taylor Professor Emeritus of Entrepreneurial Studies, and his wife, Shirley, are funding a Term Professorship in the Wharton School. The professorship is to be the Edward B. Shils and Shirley R. Shils Term Professorship in Entrepreneurial Management. This was an unusual gift on the part of a professor still teaching at Wharton. The Shils family has already created a professorship at the Law School in Arbitration and Alternative Dispute Resolution.

Not only has Dr. Shils been teaching steadily in the Wharton School since 1955, but also his teaching has been supplemented over the years by numerous administrative assignments. He was co-chair of the Industry Department with Dr. George Taylor from 1960 to 1963, and Chairman of the Management Department from 1968 to 1976. Dr. Shils founded the Wharton Entrepreneurial Center (now Sol C. Snider) in 1973, and the teaching program was the first of its kind in the world. He was Director of the Center from 1973 to 1986.

Dr. Shils may hold the record for the most earned Penn degrees. After graduating from Wharton in 1936, he took his M.A. and Ph.D. in Political Science in 1937 and 1940 respectively. In 1986, he received a J.D. degree from the Law School; an L.L.M. in 1990; and his S.J.D. in 1997. He also is responsible for the annual Shils Lecture Series in Arbitration and Alternative Dispute Resolution that features prominent jurists, negotiators and mediators and is sponsored by the Law School. Dr. Shils also served as judicial administrator at Penn from 1986 to 1989.

Mrs. Shils is also a Penn alumnae having received a B.A. in Religious Studies and Mideast Politics and an M.S. in Social Gerontology.

Wharton School Faculty Teaching Awards

Undergraduate Teaching Award Winners

The David W. Hauck Award for Outstanding Teaching, the most prestigious in Wharton's Undergraduate Division, is given to recipients for their ability to lead, stimulate and challenge students, knowledge of the latest research in the field, and the commitment to educational leadership. The 2001 recipients are:

Dr. Robert A. Stine, associate professor of statistics, received the award for tenured faculty.

Dr. Andrew Metrick, assistant professor of finance, received the award for untenured faculty.

Dr. Stine and Dr. Metrick were also the recipients of an Award for Excellence in Teaching Among the Standing Faculty this year.

The Marc & Sheri Rapaport Core Teaching Award is to recognize teaching excellence in the undergraduate core. The Award is based on course evaluation ratings and can be received only once. Dr. Thomas Donaldson, the Mark O. Winkelman Professor and professor of legal studies, is the 2001 recipient of the Marc & Sheri Rapaport Core Teaching Award. Dr. Donaldson is also a recipient of this year's Award for Excellence in Teaching Among the Standing Faculty. Dr. Donaldson also received Graduate Division Class of 1984 Teacher of the Year Award, 1998; Excellence in Teaching Award (Graduate Division), 1998, 1999; Miller Sherrerd MBA Teaching Award, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000 and Excellence in Teaching Award (Undergraduate Division), 1999.

Graduate Division Teaching Awards

The Helen Kardon Moss Anvil Award is awarded to one faculty member "who has exemplified outstanding teaching quality during the last year" and is elected by the MBA student body. The winner is determined using a weighted-average number of votes that takes into consideration the number of students he has taught in the past year. In addition to receiving a cash award, the recipient is also recognized at Spring Salute and graduation. The 2000-2001 academic year marks the twentieth award season.

Dr. Robert P. Inman, Miller-Sherrerd Professor and professor of finance, public policy and management, and real estate, is this year's recipient of the Helen Kardon Moss Anvil Award. Dr. Inman is a previous recipient of a Helen Kardon Moss Anvil Award and two Excellence in Teaching Awards. Last year Dr. Inman received the prestigious Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Excellence in Teaching Awards are given by the WGA to the eight professors (this year there are nine because of a tie) with the highest overall ratings, calculated from the student course evaluation forms. The professor must have taught at least two semesters' worth of course hours during the last three semesters (fall 1998, spring 1999, fall 1999). The professor with the highest overall rating also receives the Class of 1984 Award.

The Class of the 1984 Award and the Excellence in Teaching Awards recipients are:

Dr. Philip Berger, associate professor of accounting, is the 2001 recipient of the Class of 1984 Award. He is also a past recipient of the Helen Kardon Moss Anvil Award and the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Franklin Allen, Nippon Life Professor of Finance and Economics, has won the Excellence in Teaching Award for eight consecutive years for teaching FNCE 601 (Financial Analysis). This year Dr. Allen received the prestigious Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Dr. Michael Brandt, assistant professor of finance, has won an Excellence in Teaching Award for the third consecutive time for teaching FNCE 717 (Speculative Markets). Dr. Brandt, who joined the Wharton Faculty in 1997, is now a two-time winner of an Excellence in Teaching Award.

Dr. Stuart Diamond, practice professor of legal studies, is a three-time winner of the Excellence in Teaching Award.

Dr. Thomas Donaldson, Mark O. Winkelman Professor and professor of legal studies, has received the Excellence in Teaching Award four times. He is also a previous recipient of the Class of 1984 Teaching Award.

Dr. Michael Gibbons, I.W. Burnham II Professor of Investment Banking, has received the Excellence in Teaching Award for the second time.

Dr. William S. Laufer, associate professor of legal studies, received the David W. Hauck

Award for Outstanding Teaching in the Undergraduate Division in 1991 and 1997. He also received the Excellence in Teaching Award (Undergraduate Division) eight times.

Dr. Andrew Metrick, assistant professor of finance, has been on the Wharton faculty since 1999. This is his first Excellence in Teaching Award.

Dr. William C. Tyson, associate professor of legal studies, accounting, management, real estate, and law, has received the Class of 1984 Award nine times. This is the 17th time Dr. Tyson has received an Excellence in Teaching Award.

The Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Awards are given each year to the eight core faculty who received the highest student ratings in the course evaluation form. The winners are:

Dr. Franklin Allen, Nippon Life Professor of Finance and Economics, has received numerous awards for his teaching excellence including the Class of 1984 Teaching Award, the Helen Kardon Moss Anvil Award, and Excellence in Teaching Award (Graduate and Undergraduate Division). This is the seventh time Dr. Allen has won the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Eric Bradlow, assistant professor of marketing and statistics, has been teaching at Wharton since 1996. He is a previous recipient of the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award in 1999.

Dr. Alvin Carley, practice professor of accounting, is a first time recipient of the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Neil Doherty, Ronald A. Rosenfeld Professor and professor of insurance and risk management, has twice won the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Thomas Donaldson, Mark O. Winkelman Professor and professor of legal studies, in previous years received the Excellence in Teaching Award (Graduate and Undergraduate Division) and the Class of 1984 Teaching Award. This is the fifth year in a row that Dr. Donaldson has received the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Gavan Fitzsimons, assistant professor of marketing, has been a member of the Wharton faculty since 1998. This is Dr. Fitzsimons' third Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. William S. Laufer, associate professor of legal studies, received the David W. Hauck Award for Outstanding Teaching in the Undergraduate Division in 1991 and 1997. He also was the recipient of the Excellence in Teaching Award (Undergraduate Division) in 1990, 1991, 1992, 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999 and 2000. This year he also received the Excellence in Teaching Award.

Dr. Christian Terwiesch, assistant professor of operations and information management, is a first time recipient of the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award.

Dr. Lisa Warshaw, director, Wharton Communication Program, is a first time recipient of the Miller-Sherrerd MBA Core Teaching Award. This year she also received the Core Curriculum Teaching Award.

In Anticipation of Changes at 37th Street

37th Street: Two-Way Traffic

Glenn Bryan, director of City and Community Relations, has announced that the Philadelphia Streets Department has responded to the University's request to redesign 37th Street between Walnut and Chestnut Streets to accommodate two-way traffic. The reconfiguration is scheduled to go into effect this week. During the next few days, new signage will be installed to reflect the change from one-way to two-way traffic.

The redesign is made possible through a trial ordinance issued by the Streets Department, effective for a period of six-nine months. The Streets Department will solicit feedback and general comments regarding the effect and impact of the redesign with respect to traffic flow and safety. At the conclusion of the trial period, a formal hearing and ordinance will be sought through City Council.

The Office of City and Community Relations requested the configuration on behalf of the University in response to requests to increase accessibility to Sansom Common and to reduce traffic congestion on surrounding streets.

The Office of City Community Relations has helped coordinate these changes in conjunction with the Division of Public Safety and the Division of Facilities Services. For more information about the reconfiguration of traffic on 37th Street, please contact Glenn Bryan at (215) 898-3565.

Fresh Air Food Plaza Temporary Relocation

The eight campus food vendors currently operating the "Fresh Air Food Plaza" adjacent to Gimbel Gymnasium will be temporarily relocated to Sansom Street. The interim move is necessary due to construction of the David S. Pottruck Health and Fitness Center, which will add 65,000 square feet of state-of-the-art recreational space to the existing Gimbel Gymnasium facility. Construction of the facility is scheduled to begin on or about May 22 and is expected to last approximately two years.

During construction, the eight food vendors currently operating in this space will be temporarily relocated to the south side of Sansom Street, between 37th and 38th Streets, alongside the Mod VI parking garage. In addition, a small outdoor seating area will be established on the lawn to the west of the Greenfield Carriage House, to accommodate customers during warmer months.

Signs will be installed along Walnut Street, 37th and 38th Streets, to direct patrons to the new location.

Recognized Holidays for Fiscal Year 2002

The following holidays will be observed by the University in the upcoming fiscal year (July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002) on the dates listed below:

|------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| Independence Day | Wednesday, July 4, 2001 |
| Labor Day | Monday, September 3, 2001 |
| Thanksgiving | Thursday and Friday, November 22 and 23, 2001 |
| Christmas Day | Tuesday, December 25, 2001 |

| Martin Luther King, Jr. Day | Monday, January 21, 2002 |
| Memorial Day | Monday, May 27, 2002 |

The Special Winter Vacation granted to faculty and staff between Christmas Day and New Year's Day will be December 24, 26, 27, 28, 31, 2001. If an employee is required to work to continue departmental operations for part or all of this period, the Special Winter Vacation can be rescheduled for some other time.

Staff members who are absent from work either the work day before a holiday, the work day after a holiday, or both days, will receive holiday pay if that absence is charged to preapproved paid time off or to sick days substantiated by a written note from the staff member's health care provider.

Extension of 2001 Special Winter Vacation to Include Monday, December 24, 2001

To the University Community:

After examination of the potential business needs for staying open the Monday before Christmas Day, 2001 and to give our employees a well deserved additional day of rest and replenishment, the University will extend the Special Winter Vacation for 2001 to include Monday, December 24, 2001. If an employee is required to be on duty to continue departmental operations for part or all of this day, the time off can be rescheduled for some other time.

Hospital employees and employees in collective bargaining units are governed by the terms of Hospital policy or their respective collective bargaining agreements.

Vacations and holidays for Hospital employees or those staff members in collective bargaining units are governed by the terms of hospital policies or their respective collective bargaining agreements.

2001-2002 Faculty/Staff Directory Revisions: June 12 Deadline

Update Your Individual Directory Record Online

For inclusion in the 2001-2002 Directory, Tuesday, June 12 is the deadline to update individual records online. While updates may be made any time, online revisions made after June 12 will not be included in the hard-copy directory.

To update your record in the white pages:

- 1) Go to www.upenn.edu/directories/dir-update.html (by June 12 for the hard-copy directory)
- 2) Click on "Online Add/Update Form."
- 3) Enter your PennNet ID and password. (For more information regarding your PennNet ID and password, go to www.upenn.edu/computing/netid).
- 4) Follow the prompts. Once you have entered and reviewed any revisions, be sure to click "Update Listings" so your changes will take effect.

New Staff Members

New staff may update their record online after they have obtained a PennCard and PennNet ID/password. Inclusion in the printed directory will be at the discretion of the department.

Non-University Staff

For representatives of CHOP, HUP, Inn at Penn, Sheraton, Bon Appétit, Penn Bookstore, and other University partners, updates will be made via the list sent to Directory Liaisons.

Directory Liaison Responsibilities

1) White Pages Verification

Department lists of white pages submissions will be sent for verification the last week in June. Please review and submit any changes by July 23.

2) Tan Pages Updates (Departmental Lists)

This year, tan pages (previous yellow pages) will not be mailed to Directory Liaisons for review and updating. All tan pages revisions should be sent as an email attachment or by campus mail.

Directory Liaisons will receive an email outlining the proper format for tan pages revisions.

Tan Pages updates will be accepted from Directory Liaisons only.

More Information or Directory Copies

For more information, review the Directory FAQ: www.upenn.edu/bus-svcs/directory/faq.html. For additional copies of the 2000-2001 Telephone Directory, or if you have questions, please e-mail fsdirectory@pobox.upenn.edu.
