The Philadelphia Antiques Show

April 6-10

This mahogany desk and bookcase, 1725-1745, —reportedly made by Philadelphia cabinet-maker Stephen Armit—may be the one mentioned in James Logan Stenton's 1752 inventory as a "Scrutore."

The cost is $12 at the door, $10 for seniors & WHYH members, and $5 for PENNCard holders. Discounted group rates are available. Photo I.D. is required to enter.

The Loan Exhibition: This Glorious House Stenton

Administered by the National Society of the Colonial Dames in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Stenton is one of the finest historic houses in the Philadelphia region— noted for its distinguished architecture and collections. The Philadelphia Antiques Show will be a special opportunity to view Logan family objects—from the Dames' collection at Stenton and from other institutions, as well (including: Philadelphia Museum of Art; Library Company of Philadelphia; Commissioners of Fairmount Park; Historical Society of Pennsylvania; and Metropolitan Museum of Art). James Logan's easy chair from a private collection will also be on view.

The gathering of these objects, particularly James Logan's upholstered seating furniture, helps visitors realize that although James Logan (1674-1751) was a Philadelphia Quaker, he was a self-made, wealthy British gentleman, who furnished his country house, Stenton (built 1723-1730), in so grand a manner as to compare with his English counterparts across the Atlantic Ocean.

For details and a schedule of special events, see www.philaantiques.com.

Until recently held in a private collection, High Chest, Philadelphia, 1730-1750, will be publicly shown as part of This Glorious House: Stenton. With its matching dressing table of curled maple, this chest retains its original hardware.
